Dear Maya Family: A Letter from the CEO

Dear Maya Family,

As Dr. Maya Angelou wrote, "I have heard it said that winter, too, will pass, that spring is a sign that summer is due at last. See all we have to do is hang on." And indeed, we have hung on and spring is finally upon us in DC! I hope you and yours have enjoyed this warmer weather and all the wonderful changes this time brings. We at the Maya Angelou Schools have been quite busy, and I am happy to fill you in on some of the amazing work our students have been up to this spring season. Read more.

Partners and Funders Luncheon

This April, the Maya Angelou Schools and See Forever Foundation hosted its annual Partners and Funders Luncheon. We hold this event annually to thank our supporters and partners, without whom we could not fulfill our mission. Partners like the College Success Foundation and BUILD make it possible for us to create active learning communities where our students can reach their potential both academically and socially. So, each year, we at Maya like to show our appreciation and give our supporters a taste of what their efforts have translated into at the schools. Read more.

Spring Events at MAA

G.R.I.T Arts Showcase

We have been busy here at MAA with all of our spring events!

Scholars worked with writers from Young Playwrights Theater to create their own original plays and then have them acted out by professional actors. This is our 4th year partnering with Young Playwrights Theater and is always a powerful few weeks of writing and acting!

The Maya Angelou High School cafeteria transformed into a scene from New York Fashion Week, complete with red carpet runway, high-end fashion, traditional African drums, special guest artists, dancing, and original pieces of art and poetry.

The students, staff members, and artists in residence worked tirelessly to ensure that the GRIT (Growth Rooted In Transformation) Fashion Show would go off without a hitch.

YALC Launches Seeds For Success!

Maya Angelou Young Adult Learning Center launched the Seeds for Success, a work-learn program where students engage in an internship with the Department of Public Works, while attending GED classes at the YALC. The partnership provides students with an opportunity to gain valuable personal and professional skills, putting them on a pathway to success. Read more.

MAPCS Announce Academy of Hospitality and Tourism

Maya Angelou Public Charter High School announces the launch of its Academy of Hospitality and Tourism (AOHT) for the 2016 -2017 school year. Slated to open in late August, the AOHT will induct its first cohort of students in a ceremony to honor and acknowledge the significance and commitment involved in this undertaking. Learn more.
